

GCG's EMS Full Disclosure Case Study

In regard to collecting, managing, and reporting material declaration compliance information, this is a case study of The GoodBye Chain Group's work with a large Electronics Manufacturing Services (EMS) Company. This company was faced with demands from one of its largest customers to provide full disclosure material declaration information for all finished products sold to the customer. This case study details challenges faced, strategies and solutions for meeting customer demands, ROI factors and step by step work flow processes to implement a full disclosure compliance solution. To receive GCG's EMS Full Disclosure Process Implementation Case Study, please email us at: EMSCSR@goodbychain.com. Please make sure that your email request is generated from a valid corporate email account and include your full name, telephone number and job title in your email request.